

Tracy Armstrong to Present on COVID-19 Impact on the Workplace for Edison Chamber of Commerce

06/29/20

Wilentz employment law attorney Tracy Armstrong will present the “COVID-19 and Its Impact on the Workplace” webinar for Edison business owners, providing timely updates on the Families First Coronavirus Response Act, the current status of unemployment, and other leave and return to work issues as a result of the COVID-19 public health crisis. The webinar is being produced by the Edison Chamber of Commerce, a non-profit business organization dedicated to advancing the interests of the Edison business community.

At Wilentz, Ms. Armstrong defends businesses of all sizes in New Jersey against claims relating to employment discrimination, wage and hour, wrongful termination, and harassment, among others, and helps them to address employment law concerns involving the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, New Jersey Wage Payment laws, the Family Medical Leave Act, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, among other employment laws and regulations. She also regularly conducts compliance training programs designed to help employers across industry sectors comply with federal and state labor and employment laws.
