Jason J. Krisza to Present at NJSBA Program on Strategic Approaches to Entity Formation

Thursday, December 10, 2026

Wilentz Shareholder Jason J. Krisza will serve as a presenter at the New Jersey State Bar Association's program, Structuring the Modern Business: Strategic Approaches to Entity Formation. The program will bring together attorneys and business advisors to examine key considerations involved in selecting and forming business entities in today's evolving legal and economic environment.

As part of the program faculty, Jason will join fellow presenters in discussing the legal, tax, liability, and operational factors that influence entity selection for businesses at various stages of growth. The program will explore strategic approaches to forming and structuring entities, as well as practical considerations that can help business owners and their advisors make informed decisions when launching or reorganizing a business.

Designed for attorneys who advise business clients, the program will provide attendees with insights into the benefits and challenges associated with various entity structures, including corporations, limited liability companies, partnerships, and other organizational models. Participants will gain a deeper understanding of how entity selection can impact governance, taxation, risk management, and long-term business objectives.

The program offers an opportunity for legal professionals to stay current on developments affecting business formation and organizational strategy while earning continuing legal education credits.
