Defining Privacy of Biometric Information: Legislative Approaches to Growing Use of Biometrics in Our Society and What it Means for Businesses

08/29/22

Biometric data privacy laws are quickly popping up all across the country, with more and more being signed into law with each passing year. Wilentz attorneys Brett Harris and Natalie Moszczynski's recent article in the New Jersey Lawyer examines the fairly new, but quickly expanding, biometric data privacy laws being passed and introduced throughout the country, the current proposed legislation in New Jersey, and concerns that business entities should keep in mind in order to maintain legal compliance when involved with biometric data.
