Here's What Developers Need to Know About New Jersey's New Law on Electrical Vehicle Parking Credits

03/20/24

Complying with local parking requirements is often a major challenge for property developers. Donna M. Jennings, Shareholder and Co-Chair of the Land Use Team, discusses recent legislation in New Jersey where developers can now reduce the number of required parking spaces by including electric vehicle charging stations or “make-ready” spaces, promoting both flexibility and environmental sustainability.
