

General Counsel

The Health Law attorneys at Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, P.A. provide general counsel services to a variety of healthcare entities, including individual healthcare professionals (physicians, ophthalmologists, dentists, nurses, physician assistants, physical therapists, optometrists, psychiatrists, and psychologists) and physician group practices, hospital-physician joint ventures and physician joint ventures, as well as all types of institutional health care providers such as academic medical centers, hospitals, healthcare group practices, physician practice management companies, health care systems, substance use disorder treatment facilities and mental health facilities, ambulatory surgery centers, nursing homes, continuing care retirement communities, behavioral health and developmental disability providers, hospices, home health agencies, long-term care facilities, managed care organizations, durable medical equipment providers, medical staffs, practice management companies, medical billing companies and pharmacies.

Our service as corporate counsel includes the standard aspects of legal work, such as advice and representation in connection with contracts, agreements, and transactions. We have also become our clients' trusted strategic advisors, helping them with high-level strategy and with the commercial aspects of their businesses. Because we have experience with all aspects of the industry, and know how the various players interconnect and affect each other, and because we have regulatory experts for complex issues such as HIPPA, we have come to be known as go-to lawyers for those doing business within the healthcare industry.
